Listening is a valuable skill. Lately, I have really been HEARING my clients as they describe their experience with hair loss.

What I have heard is poignant. Women who have suffered hair loss express feelings of self-consciousness and embarrassment.

They talk about feeling like people are always looking at their hair and noticing their scalp showing through. Whether they really are or not is irrelevant. The feeling is still there.

My beautiful clients fear they have lost their attractiveness.

They try many ways to minimize the look of thinning—powders, fibers, combing their hair a certain way. They are afraid to get caught in the rain or go swimming and fear that the wind will destroy their carefully sculpted coiffure.

This fear of exposure becomes part of their essential being and affects every part of their lives. To those who have never experienced such fear, this may sound extreme; but for these dear women, it is real.

You can't imagine the relief that washes over their faces when I tell them that there is a way to throw off those feelings forever! There is a way to have renewed confidence and a free spirit.

That way is through Scalp Micropigmentation.

This is a process whereby tiny dots of pigment that resemble hair follicles are placed under the skin within the hairline. By eliminating the color discrepancy between the scalp and hair, the pigmentation effectively gives the illusion of a full head of hair.

In this way, the scalp is camouflaged, and the look of a full head of hair is restored. The result is subtle and natural.

Scalp micropigmentation has many benefits:

- The results are long term.
- The effects are immediate.
- It is non-invasive.
- It is undetectable, blending in with your existing hair.
- It is maintenance free.
- It is AFFORDABLE.
- It is SAFE.
- It is LIBERATING!
