

TURN YOUR BASEMENT INTO A MAN CAVE? ADDITIONAL BEDROOMS? HOME THEATRE? GAME ROOM?

By Brian E. Coleman

An underused and unkempt space in most homes is the basement. But it is this very area that holds endless possibilities. Once you've decided to remodel your basement, these ideas will help raise its value and add some functional space for you to use and flaunt.

1. Man Cave

Man caves don't have to be dark, grimy, and dingy. You can shed a whole new light on this room and make it timeless and sophisticated. Make it extra-comfy, add a youthful yet retro flair, and have top-of-the-line recreational equipment. It can certainly be a bright and sunny space. Even if space isn't finished, keep it raw and just work on paint and woodwork.

2. Basement Bar

Entertain your family and guests with style in your own personal and modern basement bar. Have a huge open bar or pint-sized minimal setup—balance elegance with functionality, and it'll be more than sufficient. Hire expert contractors and see your space transform.

3. Game Room

Basement remodeling allows the creation of a perfect game room. And in fact, you don't even have to fuss over keeping things in place. That way, you can focus more on fun time rather than being too picky about the color or furniture choices. Moreover, it can be everyone's cave to enjoy!

4. Home Theater

These are no longer an extravagance just for the rich and famous. Technology has gotten so affordable that everyone can enjoy watching a film right in the comfort of their remodeled basement. So set up your big screen, install theater-style seating, connect the best sound system, and you'll never go back to the multiplex again!

5. Guest Room

Another option is to consider adding a comfortable guest room to your house—you can never go wrong with that. Keep the furniture and color palette neutral and maintain a low-key yet modern vibe. Make it cozy and private with enough light and amenities.

6. Home Office

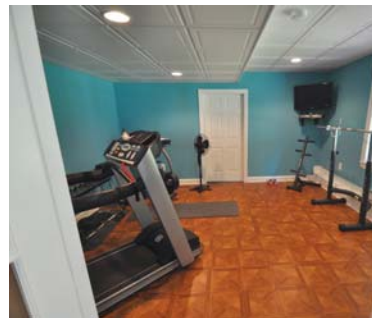

Since remote work is becoming the latest trend, why not set up a productive workspace at home? Give the room your personal touch, so every time you enter it, you'll feel encouraged to give your best for the day.

7. Laundry Room

How about a functional and colorful laundry room? Even though laundry is just a chore, you can make it seem fun with a space that's more pleasant. Make simple alterations and add features to organize things better.
