OWNER/ARTIST OF KYM BALDWIN PHOTOGRAPHY

I have been around photography most of my life. I remember as a small child my great grandfather being a photographer—a dapper man always in dress pants and suspenders with his camera equipment. My family still has photo books and walls of photos he took over the years. My first camera was one of those thin Kodak cameras with the flashcube on top that melted as it was used. I would take pictures of the family dog and flowers, not realizing I was in the first stages of a lifelong love affair with photography.

Even as an adult, my camera is frequently in tow, and, when I am not photographing clients, I am out photographing nature, chasing waterfalls, or setting up to photograph the night sky. Photography is my lifestyle, which is why I call what I do lifestyle photography. I love to capture my clients doing what they love. Everyone should have a really good portrait of themselves, but, along with that, it's very important in this digital age to have pictures of yourself doing what you do. Everyone has a website now, and it's important to have your photos reflect who you are and what you do.

Boudoir and Vestiaire is another realm of photography that I love. It involves helping women and men find their strength in their vulnerability. I have loved working with women who don't feel like they are beautiful and showing them that, not only are they just that, but they are also brave and strong. We all need to feel good in our own skin and to celebrate our differences and the things that make each of us unique.

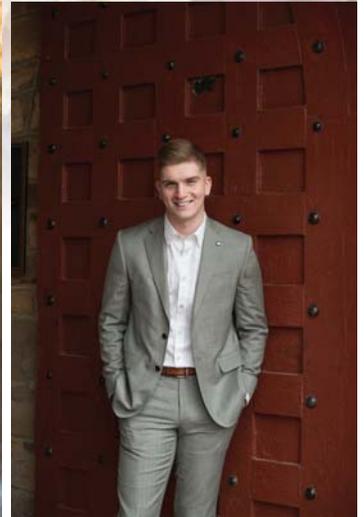

The studio I share in the heart of scenic Doylestown is set up to create a wonderful and creative photography experience not only in the studio but outside as well. We are a short walk from many beautiful spots around town that help create beautiful environmental portraits. If you have a favorite spot in which you would like to be photographed, I have a portable studio and will make that happen as well. Photography is about capturing you and your life.
