

Age Difference Stops So Many

By Robert Burns
Motivational Speaker, NLP Trainer

It is rather difficult for me to understand why so many people—both men and women—get hung up on age differences. When you pause to think more about it, you realize we're all the same age, even though some of us arrived here first. (Spirits do not age.) To me, the important consideration is, or ought to be, the energy between two people. Common interests, similar goals (they need not be the same, but just having them gives meaning to life), and physical attraction are important.

Attraction, though, is not the glue that holds a relationship together. Physical looks change, whereas what a person is on the inside in almost all cases will grow. The beauty of a human is found in the eyes since that is the spirit peeking through.

I hope this brief article will assist in future decisions and open the eyes of those who are not sure. God Bless You.

See the Events Calendar on page 2, for information about my class on June 17th, An Introduction to Neurolinguistic Programming. Rid yourself of phobias, allergies, and trauma.
